To commence at the beginning of this period with a backward look from today; to carefully scan the succeeding ten years, bringing to the fore from that long buried past, the facts, incidents and prominent figures of that early settlement, would seem to be a draft upon one s memory that could not be honored. Yet, knowing myself and the tenacity of my memory, from those boyhood days, I know that it is clear, and True as the needle to the pole, Or as the dial to the sun. From the storehouse of that memory, I have brought forth the facts and reminiscences embodied in this address. Fiction is given no place and nothing is credited to the imagination. I only fear you may set down as trifling and uninteresting, so much that is necessarily personal to myself in many of the incidents herein related. But, being dear to me, I submit them to your kindly interest. I remember when a boy in Vermont my father procured an old-fashioned atlas, with the apparently unsettled northwest territory traced upon it, and calling my older brothers to him, pointed with his forefinger on the map to that portion of the territory which began along the southern point of Lake Michigan, and...
