CHAPTER II THE STUDY OF THEOLOGY IN THE THIRD AND FOURTH CENTURIES IN THE SCHOOL OF ALEXANDRIA AND ITS DEPENDENTS 1. The school of Alexandria was founded, so far as we are able to determine, by Pantcenus, near the close of the second Christian century. Pantcenus (fc. 200), a Stoic philosopher and a teacher of rhetoric, after his conversion to Christianity organised in Alexandria a Christian school, of which he became the head. It is commonly supposed that this school of the faithful was the ancient catechetical school. If so, it was transformed by Pantaenus. Eusebius¹ describes him as a man highly distinguished for his learning; Jerome as of great prudence and erudition both in the Scriptures and in secular literature. 2 They agree in saying that he was sent on a mission to India. According to Eusebius, He displayed such zeal for the...
